How do i setup wifi on my element tv

Status Not open for further replies. Previous Next Sort by votes I have n element ELEFW328X and how can I get WiFi? Thats not a smart tv at all is it ?? Why would you need to connect it to wifi ?? That model is not a Smart TV, it has neither WiFi nor an ethernet port so it can't connect to a network, there would be no point since the TV does not have any networking software or internet apps. You need to buy a Smart TV if you want to connect it to a network. You can use any media streamer (Roku, Apple TV, Firestick, Chromestick, or android TV) to add smart functions to your TV. The streamer connects to your wifi rather than the TV. Reactions: weibo Status Not open for further replies. M Solved! Streaming Video & TVs 1 Dec 25, 2015 When you upgrade your television, you're likely going to be the proud owner of more TVs than you currently want or need. In this case, look for disposal options, which include recycling.Disposing of Large ElectronicsTelevisions fall into the category of large electronics. These devices are the things that you plug into electric outlets, and they require special disposal methods to make sure they don't sit in landfills. Televisions, amplifiers, printers, computers and other large devices have internal components that should be removed and recycled.If your television is older with a cathode ray tube, it contains hazardous mercury and lead. Most donation centers don't accept these older models, and you'll need to find a recycling center that specifically accepts them.Preparing Your Television for RecyclingIf your television is a smart TV, reset it to factory settings so that none of your personal information remains in the system.Bundle the cord neatly, and secure it with a rubber band or twist tie. Tape the bundled cord to the television.Test the television to see if it works. When you take it to a recycling center, you'll likely be asked if it's working or non-working.Your local community may offer a bulk waste recycling program for residents. If available, you might be able to schedule a pick-up, or you might be able to take your old television to a recycling center. Some communities offer this service without fees, but others may charge you to recycle your old TV.If you don't have an option for recycling with your community, try a take-back program. Some manufacturers and retailers offer services to accept or pick up electronics, and this service might be free or could involve a fee. Call the manufacturer of your television or a few retailers in your area to see if this is an option too.Find an E-StewardE-Stewards are responsible recyclers located throughout the country. The goal of e-Stewards is to recycle using the highest of standards, which typically include not exporting e-waste and refurbishing whenever possible. Visit the e-Stewards website to find a participating center near you where you can drop off your television. The search tool on the site enables you to search with your zip code.Other Disposal OptionsIf your television still works, consider donating it instead of recycling it. Many nonprofit organizations accept televisions in working order. Or, you could donate it to a reuse organization that will turn around and give it away to an organization or individual who will use it. How do I browse the internet on a non smart TV? How to connect your TV to the internetPurchase a streaming device. Connect an HDMI cable. Use a Blu-ray player or gaming console. Use an Ethernet cord if possible. Make sure you're getting enough download speeds. Relocate your router. Does it matter what WiFi adapter I get? Depends what speed your router and your internet plan can provide you, as there's no point spending more on a top wireless adapter that supports super-fast speeds if you won't be able to even get those speeds from your router/plan in the first place. Are USB wifi adapters better than PCI? Due to PCI cards coming with antennae, this makes them naturally better at picking up a stronger signal than USB adapters. Using a PCI slot also helps free up your USB ports. Having the adapter on a USB port can be a real pain if your USB slots are full, and you need to plug in something else. Do USB wifi adapters go bad? The answer is yes and 4 years is plenty for a wireless adapter. The odds are a usb adapter would give you a better connection anyway. Why are USB wifi adapters so bad? One of the biggest problems with many USB adapters is the antennas are crappy to make them fit the form factor. The quality of the chipset used matters a great deal and while there are some ok USB ones Intel NICs are the gold standard and they don't make USB chipsets. How long do USB wifi adapters last? The lifetime of a USB-A male connector is approximately 1,500 connect/disconnect cycles. So, if you connect/disconnect your device say 4 times a day, each and every day, it should last about a year. What do USB WiFi adapters do? A USB WiFi adapter overrides the computer's built-in wireless functionality, giving you a faster, more reliable connection to your available network signals through the USB port instead. Since most computers have at least one USB port, you'll typically be able to use it on both laptops and desktops. Why is my network adapter so slow? This can occur due to your router settings or hardware failure. Slow file transfer over Gigabit network - Sometimes this issue can appear while using a Gigabit network. To fix it, just check your network adapter settings. Router slow LAN speed - If your LAN speed is slow, try disabling Large Send Offload (LSO) feature. Do I need a SIM card for a dongle? They still need a SIM card, and they require charging just like any wireless electronic device. Mobile hotspots create a MiFi network that multiple devices can connect to, as they would with a Wi-Fi network.
